

Inventory Coding Guide

The RHIS inventory is made up of technical resources specific to a country's health information systems (HIS) that collect malaria data, including policy and strategy documents, reporting tools, protocol and manuals.

The RHIS inventory is organized by country. All documents have an alphanumeric code: a three-letter acronym for the country and numbers for the level of use and type of document. The coding structure is provided in Table 1.

Each numeric code is at least 3 digits. The first denotes the level of health system use. There are five possible health system levels: national (500), regional (400), district (300), health facility (200) and community (100).

Each type of document or tool has a two-digit code ranging from 01 to 20. For example, all 501 documents are malaria strategic plans while all General Outpatient Registers are labelled 201.

Multiple versions of the same document (e.g. updated documents, new editions, or those from a series) are indicated by a decimal followed by a fourth number. See Table 2 for an example from Madagascar.

An "Other" category exists at each level as a catch-all for technical documents or resources which are not specifically identified on this list.
